

Evidence-Based Design

HG Arts recognizes that environmental psychology influences patient outcomes and that is why our art consultants work hard to support the findings of Evidence-Based Design. By understanding the goals of today's healthcare and senior living facilities, we can deliver customized art packages that create positive results.

The Guest Experience

The design track for many modern care facilities has moved beyond clean white spaces to warm interiors that showcase color, style and sophistication while emphasizing comfort. Our decades of experience, working across multiple markets, have given us a unique perspective. We apply our extensive hospitality expertise to the healthcare market to deliver the best of both worlds - a therapeutic environment that feels like a hotel!

The Therapeutic Power of Art

When it comes to curating artwork for Healthcare and Senior Living Facilities, there are a lot of variables to consider. For art to inspire and promote healing, it needs to be accessible and to speak directly to patients, relatives and staff — all at the same time. The right art can help comfort and better acclimate patients by creating a “sense of place.” Regional scenes and landmarks produce a feeling of homecoming and encourage hope.

Nature Helps Us Nurture!

Natural scenery is easily identifiable and relatable. Bright and colorful landscapes transport viewers to another place while they reassure, revitalize and restore. Adding visual interest to a space reduces environmental stress and eases depression. Simply put, artwork has the power to heal!
